The Barbeene The barbeene at Clifton on Friday last was attended by a thousand or twelve hundred persons. The attends auce would have been much larger, but for the threating condition of the weather. At half past 9 o'clock a procession numbering several hun-dred, formed in Clifton, and moved, headed by the Clifton and Oriental Cornet bands, to the grounds, waich were half a mile distant. An hour ater, Senator Coke and Gov. Throck-MADE SMITH MOTION Were escorted to the stand, storm noning with bands the while playing "Hall WILLIAMS Columbia." Gov. Throckmorton one and a half hours. It was heard with deep interest by the large as-sembly around him, and is spoken of as an effort well worthy the guished source from w_ich it emina-ted. When he had finished speaking, dinner was announced, and the guests repaired to tables loaded down with repaired to tables loaded down with good things. It is said by those who enjoyed it that a better barbeene din-ner was never provided, and that it was enough for three thousand more people than were present. After dinner Senator Coke took the stand, but just as he commenced speaking a storm came up, very much to the disappointment of everybody and the assembly was forced to disperse without hearing him. It was armounced that he would speak at Meridian on the following day. The rain continued during the afternoon. In the evening the Clifton Amateurs gave a dramatic and musical entertainment which despite the bad weather was well attended, and the performance passed off pleasanly.

Gov. Throckmorton and Col. Ross returned to Waco early yesterday morning and the Governor left or the 10 o'clock train for Sherman where he has an appointment to speak on Monday next. Several other gen-tlemen who attended the barbecue from Waco returned later in the day. Among them J. W. Taylor Esq. Mr. S. B. Trice, Mr. Brooks and Mr. Gribble. All of the Waco party enjoyed the trip very much. They give a very pleasing account of the hospitality of Clifton and Bosque county generally.

The occurrence of the genial rain, which fell on Friday marks the close of the Autumnal era. The long heated spell unprecedentdecance and told heavily upon the vital epergies. The heat has been the thirsty earth has looked up to the cloudless sky for relief and in ed sun. The grass withered and died beneath its fiery rays. Birds sought the deepest shade, and fish the deepest pools. The breaths of heaven came sad and weakly to temper the flerce rays of heat that deluged the air with terror. Trees shrank, herbs withered and the flowers turned up their petals vainly to a rainless heaven. Men panted and aisted and looked pleadingly to a brazen sky above, and a torrid parch ed earth beneath. Clouds came and formed in the bosom of the sky, eager to bring refreshment to the thirsty cry ing earth beneath, but were scattered, ch morning by a furious angry sun, and disappeared sobbing in the blue other. Twice the changing moon essayed her part, but the magic and potency of her spell was gone. The sun ruled regnant and tyranneously, and the earth seemed given up to its cruel sway. But Autumn has asserted her powers. The power of the King of day is broke. The earth laughs and rejoices, the trees look up, the grass sings in its secret rest ing place. The airs that come from the south no longer are fevered draughts of fire, but softened and tempered bumpers of refreshing coolness. Summer has ended. The glorious autumn, teeming with re-
